A letter was read from a former member, Edward McLaughlin, stationed with the United States Navy in Honolulu, by Robert McLaughlin. The social committee served refreshments.

The program in two weeks will be presented by the juvenile Grangers with a Valentine party following the session.

LEND-LEASE COMPROMISE HINTED

New British Envoy
At Work; Hopes To Speed Nation's AidHalifax Takes Over Job of Rushing United States Munitions to Fighting Forces

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Fresh from the innermost councils of London's war cabinet, Lord Halifax, new ambassador to the United States, undertook for the British empire today the all-important task of keeping American munitions moving in ever-increasing quantities to Britain's fighting forces.

That he was assured of full cooperation on the part of Washington officialdom was accepted here as beyond question after President Roosevelt had extended an extraordinary gesture of friendship by receiving him even before the tall, spare Englishman had set foot on American shores.

IRON GUARD CHIEF
REPORTED CAUGHTHoria Sima Said to Be Under Arrest As Rumanian
Purge Goes On

(By Associated Press.)

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Jan. 25.—Premier Horia Sima, Iron Guard chief named by the Rumanian government as a leader of the forces which revolted against the Antonescu regime early this week, was reported under arrest today.

(A newspaper dispatch to Budapest, Hungary, from Bucharest said it was reported that Rumanian soldiers had stormed the Iron Guard's "green house" quarters in the hunt for Sima, who had barricaded himself there.)

(Charges of looting as well as rebellion were reported lodged against guardist leaders. They were accused of sacking synagogues and wrecking the newspaper plants of Universul and Curentul.)

Assassination Plot Fails
Premier General Ion Antonescu declared in a signed statement in the newspapers today that a midnight attempt to assassinate him had touched off the bloody rebellion.

An important nest of 250 rebels was smothered at noon today. They were said to have had a large cache of hand grenades, guns, food, liquor and cigarettes. Antonescu's summary said "men whom I trusted and all those dear children in whom I put such faith and advised to respect the death of Codreanu (Corneliu Codreanu, Iron Guard martyr) could find no other way to show their faith in me than to send bullets against me and the state."

An impressive ceremony will take place in the Salvation Army Citadel Sunday evening when Capt. Robert Barton, on behalf of Territorial Commander Damon, will commission several soldiers of the local post.

Divisional Commander Brigadier William Spatig has promoted from the rank of private the following comrades: A. M. MacElfresh, recruiting sergeant; W. E. Leggett, publications sergeant; M. Eversine, junior legion officer; B. M. MacElfresh, cradle roll sergeant.

A. M. MacElfresh and M. Eversine will receive commissions as company guards. There are five companies in the local corps. M. Eversine, A. MacElfresh, F. Fish and T. Viola will receive commissions as band members of the International Order of Bandmen, comprising over 50,000 musicians throughout the world.

Sergeant MacElfresh will become a member of the senior census board of the local corps, which is the governing body commanded by Capt. Barton. The public is invited to attend the service, the first of its kind in Salem for many years.

Rotary Club To Hear Talk
On Hitler's "World Order"

"Hitler's New World Order" will be the subject of a talk by Max Wolff of Youngstown when the Salem Rotary club meets Tuesday noon in the Memorial building.

Wolff, a teacher at Youngstown college for the past year, fled into France from Germany shortly after the start of the war and eventually reached America.

He is now teaching political sciences and several languages at Youngstown college. Dr. Guy E. Byers will be program chairman for the meeting.

The manner of meeting between the chief executive and Britain's former foreign secretary, in fact, left veterans in the art of diplomacy searching in vain for a precedent and capped in drama the envoy's secret crossing of the submarine-infested north Atlantic on one of Britain's great new battleships—the 35,000-ton King George V.

Welcomed By President

Aboard the dreadnaught, Halifax arrived in Chesapeake bay, six miles below Annapolis, Md., yesterday afternoon. There, after a swift motor trip from Washington to Annapolis where he boarded the yacht Potomac, Mr. Roosevelt welcomed the ambassador and Lady Halifax at nightfall. They had transferred from the warship to the nearby yacht in small boats through fog and driving rain.

A conference between the chief executive and Halifax followed. Then they and members of their parties dined as the yacht steamed back to port. As soon as it was tied up, Halifax received reporters aboard and outlined the work he expects to do in this country.

"I have come here," he said, "as a member of the war cabinet serving in His Majesty's ambassador, make known to the government and people of the United States from time to time in what ways, if they are willing, they can best give us the help we need."

"The more quickly your generous help can be made effective, the sooner shall we be able to break this Nazi power that is trying to enslave Europe and the world."

Sees Long, Hard Road

Of the future he said: "We have assuredly a rough, difficult and perhaps a very long road before us; but the British people are united as never before in history, and I have no doubt that with your help we shall win through and save those causes on which your civilization and ours depend."

When the brief press conference broke up the presidential party and that of the ambassador went ashore to waiting automobiles.

The motor trip from Annapolis, made through a driving rain, started a little after 7:30 p. m. and at 9:15 it ended here at the steps of the rambling red brick British embassy, where the President bade the new envoy and Lady Halifax goodnight.

Fire Damages Building

EAST LIVERPOOL, Jan. 25.—Police estimated $12,000 damage was caused Friday by a fire, attributed to a chemical explosion, which swept a section of a three-story business and apartment building owned by Max Maneloveg.

A blast occurred while Miss Jane Carnahan was compounding a prescription in a drug store operated by her mother, Mrs. John Carnahan.

Auto, Truck Collide

An automobile driven by Earl J. Welsh, 9, of New Waterford, and a truck operated by William J. McBride, 28, of Akron, collided on Route 46, a mile north of Columbiana, at 3:45 p. m. Friday, state highway patrolmen said.

After the collision McBride's truck went into a ditch. Welsh received a head laceration.

DEFER NAMING OF
SCOUT EXECUTIVEMore Time to be Given to Study of Applications,
Committeeman Says

James H. Wilson, a member of the committee which was appointed to select a successor to Columbian County Scout Executive Charles E. Felton of Lisbon, disclosed today that an appointment would not be made at the county scout banquet Monday night as originally planned.

Instead, the naming of a successor probably will be delayed for several months, he explained. The committee, which has eight to 10 applications on file, has not had time to study them thoroughly.

Felton's resignation, tendered a month ago, becomes effective next Friday.

Meanwhile, Columbiana county scout activities will be carried on by the county office at East Liverpool with the aid of the district commissioners like Eddie Howell of Salem.

Third Call Quota

Expected To Be 8

The Salem draft board's quota for the third call, tentatively set for Feb. 10, is expected to be for eight men, one less than the previous report, according to word today from state selective service headquarters at Columbus.

The official notice is expected to be received by the local board within the next few days.

Meanwhile, board members have been asked to withhold replacements for the four Salem district youths who were rejected last Tuesday due to physical disabilities. The 40 youths accepted are now believed to be at Camp Shelby, Miss.

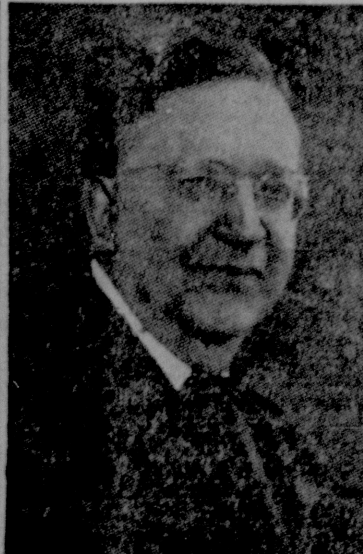

ERRING MOTORIST
READS OF SAFETY

Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp of Salem, firm believer in highway safety, introduced something new in court sentences at Lisbon yesterday.

Before passing judgment on Guy G. Patchen of Columbiana, who was indicted by the grand jury on a charge of reckless driving, Judge Sharp had the defendant read to the court two striking safety articles entitled "Sudden Death" and "Better Off Dead."

The judge then fined the Columbiana motorist $25 and costs and suspended the fine on condition of Patchen's good "driving behavior" for the ensuing year. The defendant, at the time of the arrest by state highway patrolmen, pleaded innocent to the charge.

BRITISH-HELP
BACKERS SEEK
UNITY ON BILL

Administration Leaders
Call On Republicans
To Define Terms

OPPOSITION ASKS
2-YEAR TIME LIMIT

Democratic Committeemen
Indicate They'll Accept Revisions

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The administration, bidding for congressional unity on its aid-to-Britain program, was reported today to have asked some influential Republicans in congress to define the compromise terms under which they would be willing to go along on the lend-lease bill.

Apparently moving to minimize the threat of lengthy controversy, administration confidantes were said to have urged opponents to draft amendments embodying the restrictions which they have said should be written into the measure.

Two-Year Limit Asked

The chief changes suggested thus far would limit operation of the President's proposed lend-lease powers to two years, restrict to Great Britain and immediate allies the extension of credit for supplies, fix a ceiling on expenditures, prohibit the use of naval escorts for convoys and curb the President's power to transfer equipment that might be considered by the army and navy to be necessary for national defense.

While first compromise feelers were reported to have been put forward in senate quarters, evidence of a spirit of compromise was seen in the house foreign affairs committee, before which administration sponsors of the bill today called a half dozen witnesses to conclude two weeks of public hearings.

First expected to take the stand was William C. Bullitt, former ambassador to France.

See Quick Approval

Republican members said that if "three or four amendments" such as the time and expenditures limitations were accepted, the bill would be quickly approved by the committee.

Democratic leaders on the committee privately said they were willing to accept revisions and it was believed possible the measure might be sent to the house floor next week.

Although open hearings were scheduled to close today the committee, by order of its 15 majority members, will meet again Monday to hear in private three high-ranking military and naval officers—Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Major General George H. Brett, acting army air corps chief.

EVANGELIST PLANS
CAMPAIGN IN SALEM

Dr. J. T. Adams, nationally-known evangelist and Bible authority, dubbed by his friends as the "Oklahoma Cyclone," will conduct a "Back to the Bible" evangelism campaign at the local Salvation Army Citadel commencing next Tuesday night and continuing through Feb. 9.

The revival will be held here in connection with the Salvation Army's world-wide campaign, "Christ for the Family; The Family for Christ."

Dr. Adams recently concluded a series of meetings in Coshocton and is now in charge of services at Toledo.

The Salvation Army leader's many years of ministry has been marked with achievements. Dr. Adams is reported to have recorded close to 30,000 conversions and aided 100 young men and women to enter the ministry. He is a keen student of the Bible, being able to quote as many as 50 chapters by memory.

Special music will be heard at the services and the public is invited. It is announced by Captain Robert H. Barton, officer in charge here.

WITH MISGIVINGS

In line with a policy of keeping abreast of the effort to make the United States self-sufficient in the matter of styles for women, it now becomes necessary to report an unpleasant fact.

A big style show opened the other night in New York City, destined to be the American style center. According to reports flown over the Alleghenies by carrier pigeons, dominant note of the affair was revival of American traditions. It's sad but true; there even were panache ruffles.

This is a natural mistake of mediocre artists, this refusal to strike out and create their own style. It is easier to imitate, or perhaps to thumb through some old illustrations to see what someone else tried and got away with. There's no reason under the sun why American designers can't set the pace for style designers all over the world. All they have to do is swallow the lump, stand on their own feet, sink or swim, to their own selves be true, take the bit in their teeth, and rush in where angels fear to tread. Their first attempt, however, must be viewed with misgivings.

AFRICAN CALISTHENICS

Wishful thinking and fuzzy geography are combining to make British successes in Africa seem more important than they are. True, British troops have enjoyed marked success. They have inflicted heavy losses on Italy's African army. For the time being at least, they have kept the Nile delta and the Suez canal out of unfriendly hands. Apparently, they have gained the upper hand in the Mediterranean, though in that connection it must be borne in mind that the Italian fleet still is formidable, even though it does not choose to fight for anything short of its ultimate purpose—the defense of Italy.

Objective inventory of the situation in the Mediterranean, which may be in order following Britain's success at Tobruk, discloses chiefly that British forces have turned back an Italian drive toward Suez and chased the would-be invaders deep into Libya. Simultaneously, British forces have harassed Italian forces in Eritrea and Ethiopia, now cut off from their home base by British naval supremacy. Italy has been humiliated in Africa, but what effect this may be expected to have on the outcome of the war, if any, is anybody's guess. Certainly there is no reason to believe Great Britain's African calisthenics, while showing signs of good intentions, are contributing materially to British strength in the contest with Germany.

OUTGOING MAIL

It is committing no breach of confidence to mention that this department is in simultaneous receipt of two communications from the deep south, one inviting us to tell our friends about the 10th annual pilgrimage to Natchez, Miss., which is put on by the Natchez Garden club and sounds like a heaven-sent opportunity to enjoy southern hospitality from March 22 through April 6; the other inviting us to tell our friends they should cry out against the St. Lawrence Seaway project, this latter coming from The Times Picayune Publishing Co. of New Orleans.

If the Natchezians will forward the wherewithal to each their fair city, it will be a pleasure to float down the river to New Orleans on a separate pilgrimage to explain to the gentlemen of the latter place why their alarm over the seaway, obviously stemming from unconfessed devotion to the selfish interests of their busy port, is not in the classic spirit of southern hospitality and therefore must be disregarded in this part of the Great Lakes area, which is also devoted to selfish interests and has no tradition of hospitality to uphold, leaving it free to confess as much without shocking anyone.

FORUM

Testimony on the lend-lease bill before the house foreign affairs committee, constitutes, in a literal sense, a forum, with the whole United States and part of the world listening in. The committee and witnesses can be depended on to maintain order in the conduct of their affairs, but the behavior of the audience is entirely up to the members of the audience, themselves. This is one of those tests of popular government that editorial writers like to write about.

A common objection to the behavior or misbehavior of audiences for smaller forums is their tendency to drown out discussion by catcalls and applause. This is lamentably true of radio forums with studio audiences. Most thoughtful persons think such things are out of place, particularly sounds of derision, tell-tale signs of a closed mind.

Perhaps for the duration of the hearings in Washington the soundest plan for the American audience would be to stifle the impulse to applaud everything pleasing and boo everything displeasing. Feelings got to running so high on Col. Lindbergh that there seemed to be some danger of the belligerents paying more attention to their feelings about the colonel than to what he had to say about the lend-lease bill.

If the expense and trouble of holding the hearings can be justified, they must be justified by the salutary effect on public opinion. That effect is, of course, lost whenever the intended beneficiaries make the mistake of opening their mouths wider than their ears. That goes for the Tower of Babel, but it's no good for the forum.

Fascism missed a lot of things, but it certainly developed a great retirement plan for generals.

People don't need to be reminded to see their local newspaper for further details. They'd do it anyway.

The Nazis foresee a spring victory. They also had delusions of marching into London last August.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, January 26

SUNDAY'S horoscope hints of a particularly romantic or emotional inclination, although the mystical, novel occult or scientific trend of mind will not be lacking. Surprising developments may be expected in either propensity and in any case there are to be thrills and high adventure, but do not fly into spheres too high. Keep the feet on the earth.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate the advent of the exceptional or unaccustomed in almost any direction in which their inclinations lie. In science, art, in expression, or in business of an unusual phase calling for daring and adventure, there is excellent stimulus. Romance of a most beautiful implication seems to beckon to the heights. Study in all phases of the transcendental, occult, unique in all creative forms should thrive.

A child born on this day should have many and divers talents of an extraordinary, dramatic, emotional gauge and highly creative therein.

For Monday, January 27

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is rather conflicting, with some fair auguries but with decided menace to finances, standing and personal prestige. Partnerships may get a start, or new business, but in all be alert, especially in dealing with the public or collective bodies, as slyness and treacheries abound. Those whose birthday it is may have a year of some advancement, especially in connection with new business or partnerships, although all things are menaced by subtle dangers, intrigue, hidden factors, and possible litigation and financial loss unless particularly watchful and shrewd.

A child born on this day may have talent, ability and ambition but may be defeated or discouraged because of singular developments undermining their success and popularity. Early and proper training should be aimed at smothering such sense of utility.

Roosevelt and Willie meet as friends. Laval and Petain meet as friends. Hitler and Mussolini meet as friends—all on the same day. Where's that lion and that lamb?

"BOTTOMS UP"

BLAND DIET IS SUGGESTED

Effective In Colitis, Says Dr. Clendenen

By LOGAN CLENDENEN, M. D.

Dr. Axel Munthe in "The Story of San Michele," one of the popular "doctor books" of a few years ago, ridiculed the term "colitis" but it has persisted in spite of his attack and his anecdotes.

The purist, the scientific doctor, recognizes colitis, of course, as an actual inflammation of the large bowel, the colon, which is caused by definite germs or animal parasites. Then there is a peculiar condition which we agree to call "mucous colitis," about which little is understood.

Dr. Clendenen will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

But besides these, there are innumerable patients who have been told they have colitis or have applied the designation to themselves. What their condition is would be more accurately described as spastic irritable bowel. There are no organic changes in the colon, no actual germs have invaded it, but it is sore and irritable, and this condition is by far the most common cause of abdominal discomfort and pain. The underlying cause is probably some defect in the sympathetic nerve mechanism, which controls the involuntary tone of the muscular coat of the large intestine.

Feeling Tense

These patients are more or less continuously conscious of a feeling of tenseness in the abdomen. It is not so much pain as discomfort—tenseness is the best word because it has a basis in the physiology of the condition—the muscles of the intestine are indeed tense, and especially irritable. The subjects feel as if this were due to something inside the bowel and they are constantly trying to get rid of it, so they become chronic cathartic users, and enema takers, and they have colonic flushings—all of which make the condition worse.

They also go on strange diets, and eliminate one thing after another from their diet, often resulting in semi-starvation. They are the type that whole wheat bread makes worse, but they do not realize this and are the very ones that go in for whole wheat bread.

It is possible to restore them to a reasonably normal state of health. The diet of such individuals should be bland and non-irritating, somewhat like the following list:

Cream vegetable soups—tomato, pea, celery, etc.; oatmeal and rice

—these should be thoroughly boiled for at least two hours in order to break up cellulose husks—should be served with cream and sugar; eggs—soft boiled, poached, codded, scrambled; toast and toasted crackers; potatoes—mashed and baked; mashed peas, carrots; spinach; ice cream and ices; custards; tapioca; wine jelly; rice pudding; orange juice.

Avoid fried foods, meat of all kinds, fruit, vegetables with a heavy residue, salads, highly spiced foods and butter.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

L. F.: "I am 20 years of age and suffering from a slight curvature of the spine and would like to know if there is anything I can do to remedy this, or if there is any known cure for it."

Answer: About 5 per cent of women have a slight curvature of the spine, sufficient to be called beyond normal. In most cases it needs no treatment and will give no trouble. In others it should be treated by exercise and orthopedic appliances.

P. J. M.: "Will smoking cigarettes make one hard of hearing if the hearing is already slightly impaired?"

Answer: Cigarettes have no direct effect upon hearing. By causing congestion and irritation of the throat they may block up the opening of the Eustachian tube, which aggravates the condition slightly.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendenen has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendenen, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

SAN FRANCISCO—Officials of the Federal Forest Service have ruled that all motorists visiting any of the national parks this year must bring with them a shovel, ax and bucket. "Truth" is the subject of the lesson sermon which will be read at the morning worship of the Christian Science society tomorrow. The Sunday service is also broadcast over station WCLE (610 kil.), Cleveland, the first and third Sundays of each month at 11 a. m. Sunday school for pupils up to the age of 20 years, is held at 9:30 a. m. The midweek service will be held the first Wednesday of each month at the church at 8 p. m. The Golden Text is: "Thou art near, O Lord; and all thy commandments are truth. Concerning by testimonies, I have known of old that thou hast founded them for ever" (Psalms 119:151, 152).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "And David spake unto the Lord the words of this song in the day that the Lord had delivered him out of the hand of all his enemies, and out of the hand of Saul: . . . And he said, The Lord is my rock, and my fortress, and my deliverer" (II Samuel 22:1, 2).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Truth cannot be contaminated by error. The statement that Truth is real necessarily includes the correlated statement, that error, Truth's unlikeness, is unreal" (p. 287, 288).

This society maintains a reading room at 138 S. Broadway where the Bible and all authorized Christian Science literature may be read or borrowed. The room is open from 1:30 to 4 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, and from 7 to 9 p. m. on Saturday. Those people are designated as lost who are outside the saving grace of Christ. It is a condition which has come about by choices of the individual. It is the will of God that not a single person shall be outside His Kingdom of grace and salvation. Jesus was deeply concerned about reaching the unsaved. He came to seek and to save the lost. He tried to bring people back from their separation from God. He left no doubt that the recovery of the lost is not an impossible task. Every Christian has a personal obligation toward the people who are lost from God and salvation.

Morning worship, 11.
The season of the Epiphany is used to stress our obligation to the great masses of people who have not as yet come into the boundaries of God's love and blessing. Some are in this condition because they have never been given the opportunity of accepting the saving grace of Christ. Others are outside of the circle of God's grace because of the power of sin and temptation. The work of doubt and unbelief keeps many from accepting the offers of help and blessing which God has offered to all people. The church knows no racial nor social barriers in the Kingdom of God. God's whosoever includes every living soul. The church must go to the ends of the earth with the Gospel message.

JUDGE OPENS DRIVE TO MAKE OHIO AN ANTI-DIVORCE STATE

By GERALD B. HEALEY
International News Correspondent
CLEVELAND—At least one judge and a county bar association are trying to make Ohio a difficult state in which to obtain a divorce. The measure of their success rests, for at least the time being, entirely on their shoulders, but their efforts may lead to a revision of the divorce laws.

Once considered an easy state in which to sever the bonds of marriage, Ohio lawmakers tightened the statutes somewhat when they required the plaintiff in a divorce action to be a resident of the state for one year and of the county of residence for 30 days. The defendant need never have seen the Buckeye state before to be freed of a wife or husband.

Since the divorce law still is fairly wide in latitude, Common Pleas Judge Charles J. McNamee of Cleveland has taken matters into his own hands and given northern Ohio divorce seekers a new deal—or at least to some, a raw deal.

Ending Old Divorce Practice
Serving his second term as judge, McNamee drew his first assignment on the divorce court bench and promptly tossed out the practice of granting uncontested divorces at the rate of one a minute, causing lawyers to make an immediate rush for law books, something they hadn't needed under other jurists.

About the same time that Judge McNamee was instituting his slow divorce methods, the Portage County Bar association took initial steps to investigate circumstances of children when either parent dies for divorce.

The possibility of using the probate department for investigation of family circumstances before divorces are heard was being studied with a follow up by the common pleas court in setting alimony and child support requirements.

Judge McNamee expressed some very definite ideas on the matter of divorce.

"I mean to give lots of time to divorce litigants and foremost in my efforts will be a determination to exhaust all possibilities of a reconciliation before a divorce is granted," the judge declared.

Aime To Preserve Homes
"I want to preserve homes, not break them up, especially when children are involved."

During his six months on the divorce bench, McNamee will make divorces "tough" to get. He ordered the courtroom cleared of spectators and minors, separation of witnesses and producing of sufficient grounds for divorce.

Generally in the past cases have been heard and divorces granted rapidly and informally.

"HONEYMOON PREFERRED" by May Christie

SYNOPSIS

How could she win back Walter Mallory, well known lawyer? That was the question uppermost in the mind of Jean Garrett, lovely young debutante as she danced with Tommy Alden, society playboy at the Yacht Club. A few nights previous, Walter had told her he would not be third man in a party which included phandering Pedro de Moraes and Tommy, and had dropped out of the picture. To add to Jean's chagrin, he was squiring the beautiful Helen Hobart tonight. Overhearing a remark that Walter was planning a party aboard his yacht later that night, Jean contrives to see him alone, hoping we will invite her. He treats her coldly and refuses to permit a photographer to take their pictures together, sarcastically remarking, "Press agent stuff isn't my line." Piqued because Walter didn't invite her either, Helen Hobart induces Tommy to slip out of the club with her and board Walter's cruiser, "Story Petrel," for a fast ride. Suspecting mischief, Jean follows and tries in vain to see Tommy off the boat. Just as he starts it, Helen jumps back on the pier, leaving Jean alone with him. Later in the cabin, Jean's curiosity gets the better of her and she peeks into the clothes closet. What a shock! Next to Walter's clothing were a woman's pajamas and negligee! A patrol boat orders Tommy to stop. He refuses. A shot cuts the mast in two and Tommy's arm is pierced by a flying splinter. Tommy and Jean are arrested, but Walter refuses to press charges, saying Jean was authorized to use the boat. She would not tell him Helen investigated the escapade because he would only think her jealous.

CHAPTER FIVE

Early next morning, Jean was roused by the ringing of the phone at her bedside. A reporter on the line!

"Miss Garrett, will you kindly give us your version of what happened last night when you commanded Mr. Mallory's boat?" she was asked.

"Don't you dare print one syllable about me!" She hung up.

Immediately, another call. From a second paper. And before she'd annulled that one, Tolette, her maid appeared at the door. Treves, the butler, was behind her. He said apologetically: "Miss Garrett, the hall is full of gentlemen from the press. Mr. van Auker left the house early, but it seems it is you they wish to see. I told them it is impossible, but they will not leave."

"Call the police! No! Don't!" She put her hands to her throbbing head. "I won't see anybody! And don't put any more calls through on my phone. I've got to be quiet. I'm sick!"

"Very good, miss."

But as the hours passed, she knew no repose. What about dressing and sneaking out the back way? But she mustn't be a coward!

At noon, contrary to her instructions, the phone shrilled Treves' voice: "The master is on the line."

"I'll be home in fifteen minutes, Jean." The usually indulgent tones frigid. "I want to talk to you. If you have any engagements, cancel them."

Out of bed and into her demurest clothes. Even the library where she walked seemed to wear a grim look. Rupert van Auker carried an afternoon paper in his hand. A dramatic photograph fairly leaped from the front page.

A likeness of herself—and far from being a pretty self, but quite disreputable-looking, in the circumstances! Wrecked and torn evening dress—wildly disordered hair—face smudged, and wet from flying spray—bodice spattered with dark stains! She was clutching careless Tommy who looked awful!

Below this was:

"Miss Jean Garrett, Glamour Girl Grade A, in a new role. Photo shows the popular debutante and Tommy Alden, well-known playboy and socialite of this city, being arrested by police late last night for the alleged theft of Mr. Walter Mallory's cruiser from the Yacht Club."

Jean had a bad half-hour with her stepfather over the boat escapade.

What could she say? Judging from the paper, he knew that Tommy had been drinking. He'd tell her she had no business to play guardian angel to a wastrel. And now that the harm was done, why drag in Helen? Let it rest on her own shoulders.

"If this sort of thing happens again, I shall definitely cut off your allowance, Jean. It is a thousand pities your mother is in Cuba. Yet I am glad for her sake that she was not here. The shock would be too great for her!"

Jean thought wryly: As if Laurel is the complete model of decorum he imagines her to be! Why, she's crazier over a good time than I am, myself! A beautiful blonde at forty-three, Laurel was avid for attention and admirers. It wouldn't be the fact that Jean had got into a scrape that would worry her mother—it would be the exposure of it in the papers. The fact that people in their social set knew about it! Laurel was strong for keeping up appearances.

Jean's so-called friends kept calling her up in droves.

"Hyah, Toots? Who bailed you out of the hoosegow?"

"Talk about the face that launched a thousand ships—and it wasn't Helen's this time!"

Helen herself had the nerve to call Jean on the phone. "Why, I thought you were still in the jug at Tepehachi, my poor pet!" she mocked.

Jean managed to keep her temper. "And no thanks to you that I'm not," she answered quietly. "You know what you did. It was you got Tommy to go aboard. You made a dare. You know what you did. It was you got Tommy to go aboard. You saved yourself—at my expense, Helen."

"So that's the fantastic tale you're telling?" A raucous laugh.

"I haven't said a word to anybody about you. But it was mean of you not to let Walter know who'd taken his boat, and let him call the police."

"Why should I mix myself in the affair? Why should I tattle to Walter? How could I know there'd be a scandal? And in my opinion, it's as like as not you took the wheel yourself!" On that, Helen hung up.

No word from Walter. Everything was evidently over with him now. Jean thought of the pajamas and negligee in his cabin. Probably that was why he'd jumped at the chance of a break with her! Been glad to get something against her mother, alms from Cuba.

It read: "You must be completely out of your senses, Jean! At least for my sake, keep out of such headlines! How do you suppose you're allowance, Jean. It is a thousand pities your mother is in Cuba. Yet I am glad for her sake that she was not here. The shock would be too great for her!"

BOYISH LOOKING CLOTHES BEST FOR ACTIVE SKIING

Left, white and red tweed jacket and skirt; center, blue and white sharkskin jacket; right, red, white and blue striped poplin windbreaker.

If you want to enjoy skiing and to collect a wardrobe, take these pointers from Frederick A. Picard, designer of ski clothes: Stick to very tailored clothes for active skiing and look as boyish as possible on the slopes. Go completely frivolous in your after-ski clothes and be frivolous about your accessories. And be sure to wear sun glasses that adequately protect your eyes from glare. If you prefer skirts to trousers, the red and white tweed lumberjacket and ski skirt, left, will be your choice. The coat has red piping on collar and pockets. With the outfit go long red cable-stitched stockings and a scarf printed with ski figures with red and blue border. The girl with the jockey-like ski cap, center, is wearing a jacket made of blue and white sharkskin, especially wind and water proofed to resist weather. The yoke collar and flap on the pockets are blue sharkskin, and the coat will not soil when the girl throws her skis over her shoulder. Right is a new red, white and blue striped poplin windbreaker. The jacket is wind and water proofed, and the trousers are severely tailored.

This map points out the new British drives in the East African campaign against Italy. British forces, pushing into Eritrea on the Red sea, have occupied strongly fortified Fascist positions around Tessen and Sabderat, across the border from the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. At the same time, British patrols were exerting pressure on the Gallabat sector along the Ethiopian frontier and from Kenya on Ethiopia's southern border. Meanwhile, British big game hunters and archeologists are being credited in London with fanning a mountain revolt among the Ethiopians against the Italian conquerors.

MOTORS OUTSCORE EAGLES, 53 TO 47, IN CLASS A BATTLE

Rudibaugh's Edge Clowns 17 to 16; News Noses Out Presbies, 29-28.

The luckless Eagles were nosed out again last night, 53 to 47, by the Althouse Motors in a Class A tilt at the Memorial building.

Stratton and Wiggers chalked up 15 points each for the Motors. Frank was the big gun for the Eagles, sinking 16 tallies.

The first place Rudibaugh's of the Class B loop barely averted disaster as they eked out a 17 to 16 win over the Clowns.

Roberts led the winners with nine markers while Nonno collected eight for the Clowns.

The cellar-dwelling Presbyterians put up a battle before dropping a 29 to 28 decision to the Salem News. The tilt was close all the way.

Barten almost turned the trick for the Presby, hitting 15 points.

BOWLING RESULTS

Meissner's Service jumped into the lead in the Federal league last night, sweeping three games from the Knights of Columbus while the Sanitary Foremen were knocked into a second-place tie after dropping three to Brownie's Service at the Masonic alleys. Brownie's three wins gave them a hold on second place with the Foremen. C. Malloy had a good first game for the Servicemen, calking up a 225.

The National Brass & Copper tumbled the Ohio Edison Dodgers in all three games and the Sanitary Shippers took two out of three from the F. O. Eagles. Smith of the Eagles marked up a 230 in his second game.

The Church Budget pulled into a third place tie with Polisky's in the Grate Ladies' loop last night, winning one from the second place Brownie's while Polisky's were losing three straight to the Trades Class and two out of three to the Ford V-8's in a postponed match at the Grate alleys.

Finney's took two out of three tilts from the Salem Cab, and the F. O. Eagles gained two from Kaufman's.

The league-leading Ford V-8's edged the Damascus Lumber two out of three.

IRON GUARD CHIEF REPORTED CAUGHT

Horia Sima Said to Be Under Arrest As Rumanian Purge Goes On

"In the premier's office I worked like a slave early and late. I abandoned my home so as not to lose a minute."

Soldier Burned to Death

The council of ministers declared in an official resume of this week's bloody events that rebels had poured gasoline over a Rumanian soldier and set him afire, quoting this as one example of barbarism against which the army had to fight.

The announcement said it was impossible to estimate the number of casualties.

The army, with tanks, is scouring Bucharest section by section in their search for rebel leaders.

Thousands of guardsmen who had been given state jobs after the abdication of King Carol II chose to remain in hiding and lose their posts rather than appear to face arrest and punishment.

A person attached to the government said 600 guardsmen finally were forced to surrender a munition depot they had held for days when the army opened water mains to flood the basement in which they were hiding.

Government's Big Four Map Lease-Lend Procedure

War Henry Stimson, the cabinet officers have just left a meeting of the senate foreign relations subcommittee where they discussed the procedure of hearings being held on the lease-lend bill to aid Great Britain.

Canada Building Its War Strength At Fast Pace; Fanfare Ruled Out

By NORMAN MACLEOD, United Press Staff Correspondent.

OTTAWA, Ont.—With the new year Canada reviews a war effort that, within 15 months, has produced:

1. Approximately a quarter million men in uniform in the military, naval and air services.

2. An armament industry growing up to a productive capacity in excess of $1,000,000,000 a year.

3. An outlay of more than $3,000,000 a day by Dominion's citizens.

Despite these figures Canada's war effort at the end of 15 months remains unclouded in any pageantry to impress the outside beholder. Across the Dominion no recruiting posters are to be seen, martial parades with bands playing are a rare sight in the streets of cities and the number of flags flying is only slightly greater than in normal times.

The reason for this absence of much of the spectacle that traditionally goes with war is explained by the fact that Canadians have needed no stimulus to arouse them in the present conflict. Enlistments from the start of the war have been in excess of the ability of authorities to uniform and equip volunteers.

Ablest Industrialists Called

The executive needed to organize the Dominion into an important armament source has come into being figuratively overnight, largely as a result of the ablest industrialists in the nation offering their services to the government on a dollar a year basis. A tax program that has doubled and even tripled the burden on the individual citizen has been accepted without complaint.

When the war began Canada had virtually no army. Even the establishment that had been authorized existed largely on paper. Today there is a fully trained and fully mechanized Canadian Corps in Britain.

Counting some 10,000 men partly trained through conscription for home defense, nearly 190,000 soldiers are under arms.

The navy at the start of the war had a personnel of about 1,500. Today its strength exceeds 20,000.

The existing air force, now close to 30,000 in strength, is almost wholly an achievement since the war began.

Ship Building Expanded
On the industrial front, the story of accomplishment is the same. An armament industry is turning out every kind of weapon from small arms to large naval guns, including ammunition, bombs and explosives of all kinds. Old shipyards have been reopened and new ones built on both coasts and the St. Lawrence river. Plans are being made to construct vessels of the large cruiser type used by the royal navy, an aircraft industry that em-
